Yost Swope was founder of the Swope family in America. He was born in Alsatia, Duchy of Zweiby, Germany. His father was Burgomaster of Lievre, near Heidelberg. Early in 1700 he sailed for the New World with his wife and five children, because of religious persecution.

He settled in America in west to Lancaster County, Pennsylvania and bought from the Penn's 200 acres of land and 400 acres of land in Upper Leacock Township, where he resided until his death. Part of the original land grant is still in possession of the Swope family.

John Swope spent his entire life in the old Homestead in Lancaster County.

His outstanding achievement was 19 children, a record with later generations have not approached.

He accumulated a considerable estate for the period but his last will and Testament must have been somewhat of a problem.

With 18 brothers and sisters Conrad Swope found Lancaster County too crowded and at a young man decided to "go West".

Traveling then was slow, often several days enroute to get to further then the adjoining county of York. He settled at Hanover, Pennsylvania about 1735. A large part of the family is still located in or near Hanover.

The name Berstit seems to have been derived from the French name Berzetz.

The date of arrival in America from Alsace is uncertain but one opinion gives 1737.

The earliest appearance of the Berstit name is in the 1738 baptismal records of Rev. John Caspary Stoever on the Conewago where John Leonard Berstit stood as sponsor. They settled in York County with other Alsatians.

The assistance of the following is acknowledged.
